May 2018 Spotlight: Gateway Recycling

Gateway Recycling is a full-service paper, plastic and corrugated recycling company that serves the Midwest region of the US.

Gateway Recycling is family owned and was founded in Cleveland, Ohio over 20 years ago. Out-growing the original plant in Cleveland, Gateway Recycling operates out of what is now their third building in the Cleveland area. Within the last 20 years, Gateway has built their customer base tremendously and now operate out of three locations -- Cleveland, Toledo and Pittsburgh.

Grocery stores and Wholesalers make up a large amount of Gateway’s customer base. As a company, Gateway has routes that serve the Midwest Region. Their drivers will pick up any recycling materials stores may have while being able to weigh and load the materials on-site and transport them back to the facilities. After breaking down and sorting the materials at each facility, they are pulped, diluted, and recycled into new materials.

Not only does Gateway take care large recyclables at different locations for pick-ups, they also have an on-site secure shredding program. This is designed for any company that required immediate and witnessed destruction of confidential materials on their premises. On-site services are usually desired for destruction of highly sensitive materials. Gateway follows strict practices to ensure a secure closed-loop process, resulting in a controlled, document and confidential shredding experience.

Gateway Recycling has so much to offer aside from secure shredding and recyclable pick-ups, they also sell equipment to assist with your recycling programs from balers, compactors, dumping systems and more.
